DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: Page 6, line 16: delete the “|” after “opening”.

Appropriate correction is required.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to because: Figure 4 has two “102” which are referencing different features of the clip and in Figure 5, “116” should be labeled - -116”- -. A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Johnson, US Patent 6,044,582 in view of Applicant’s Admission, pages 3-4 and Figure 1 of current application (Admission).

Johnson discloses an apparatus for holding fish comprising a length of rope (12) having a loop formed at a first end (seen in figure 3), the loop securing the rope to a clip (32) wherein the clip is adapted for releasably holding a fish. However, Johnson does not positively disclose the clip design with the exception that the clip is held by the lower end portion loop of the rope and that it be adapted for releasably holding a fish. Admission discloses a clip having two or more opposing protrusions (136 and 138) moveable between a first position and a second position, the protrusions urged towards one another by a biasing member (116) to create a gripping force. While, it is not positively stated that the gripping force is capable of holding a fish, it is obvious that the gripping force would be sufficient to hold a fish as the weight of fish vary from several hundred pounds to a few ounces (to which the lightest force would be capable of holding).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the clipping device as taught by Admission as the clip device disclosed by Johnson as a matter of design choice since the clipping device as taught by Admission includes a base part capable of being held within the lower end portion of the rope (area located beneath Biasing Member 116) and having a hook part adapted for releasably holding an item (i.e. a fish) as required by Johnson.

Regarding claim 12, Johnson as modified discloses the rigid members being rotatable about a spacer (114 of admission).

Regarding claim 10, Johnson as modified discloses the protrusions being angled towards the biasing member (as seen in figure 1 of admission).

Regarding claim 11, Johnson as modified discloses the protrusion comprising a plurality of grooves (126 and 128 of admission).

Regarding claims 2 and 13, Johnson as modified discloses the clip being molded as one piece (page 3, line 3 of Admission).

Regarding claims 3 and 14, Johnson as modified discloses the clip as being molded of acetal resin (page 3, line 4 of Admission).

Regarding claims 4 and 15, Johnson as modified discloses the rope being a braided hollow polypropylene (column 1, line 45 of Johnson).

Regarding claims 5, 16 and 17, Johnson as modified discloses the loop being formed by inserting the first end of the rope inside the hollow rope a spaced distance from the first end wherein the loop couples the rope to the clip (see figure 3 of Johnson).

Regarding claims 6 and 18, Johnson as modified discloses the rope having a positive buoyancy in that braided hollow polypropylene is capable of being buoyant on water (see also column 2, lines 43-45 of Johnson).

Regarding claims 7 and 19, while Johnson as modified does not disclose the rope comprising a second end which is formed into a loop, it is well know that the addition of a loop in a length of rope assists in the holding of the rope (e.g., an animal leash) and is therefore considered to be within the ordinary skill of an artisan in the art to loop the second end of the rope to aid in the grasping of the rope.

Regarding claim 8, Johnson as modified discloses a marker for indicating the weight of an attached fish (column 1, lines 37-39 of Johnson).

Regarding claims 9 and 20, Johnson as modified discloses the rope being adapted to float on the surface of water.

Conclusion
